

Contributors

Michael L. Best is an associate professor in the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs and School of Interactive Computing at the Georgia Institute of Technology. He is also a faculty associate at the Berkman Center for Internet and Society, Harvard University.

Andy Dearden is a professor of Interactive Systems Design in the Communication & Computing Research Centre at Sheffield Hallam University. He is co-chair of IFIP Special Interest Group 13.1 on Interaction Design & International Development.

Joerg Doerflinger is a PhD student at SAP Mobile Research under the supervision of Prof. Tom Gross at the University of Bamberg, Germany. Doerflinger is engaged in several ICT for Development projects focusing on methodologies for scalable and sustainable ICT system design, development, and long-term deployment.

Ayodeji A. Fajebe is a PhD student at the Georgia Institute of Technology Sam Nunn School of International Affairs. His research interests lie at the nexus of information and communication technologies and socioeconomic development.

Regina M. Hechanova is an associate professor at the Ateneo de Manila University Dept. of Psychology. She is also the executive director of the Ateneo Center for Organization Research and Development and president of the Psychological Association of the Philippines.

Heather A. Horst is a vice chancellor's senior research fellow in the School of Media and Communication at RMIT University, Australia. She is also co-director of the Digital Ethnography Research Centre (RMIT) and research fellow with the Institute for Money, Technology and Financial Inclusion (University of California, Irvine).

Julian C. Jamison is a senior economist in the Office of Research at the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau in Washington, DC. He is also a research affiliate at Innovations for Poverty Action.

Dean Karlan is a professor of Economics at Yale University. He is also president and research affiliate of Innovations for Poverty Action, and a board member and research affiliate at the MIT Jameel Poverty Action Lab.

Pia Raffler is a graduate student at the Dept. of Political Science at Yale University. She is also a research network member at Innovations for Poverty Action.

Thomas N. Smyth is a PhD candidate at the Georgia Institute of Technology School of Interactive Computing. His doctoral research focuses on social media technologies and elections in sub-Saharan Africa.

