

Contributors

Erwin A. Alampay is an associate professor at the National College of Public Administration and Governance (NCPAG) at the University of the Philippines. He is also director of its Center for Local and Regional Governance.

Charlie Cabotaje is a university researcher at the National College of Public Administration and Governance's Center for Leadership, Citizenship and Democracy. He is also a lecturer at NCPAG, University of the Philippines.

Enrico Calandro is a senior researcher at Research ICT Africa. He holds a PhD in Business Administration, specializing in telecommunications policy, from the University of Cape Town and a master's degree in Communications Sciences from Italy's University of Perugia.

Chenai Chair is a researcher at Research ICT Africa and holds an MSocSci. She works extensively on RIA's African Mobile Pricing (RAMP) data collection and analysis, where she tracks pricing patterns in telecommunications in Africa. Her areas of specialization include gender and Internet governance.

Mariama Deen-Swarray is a researcher at Research ICT Africa. She holds a Master's (MPhil) in Economics and a BSc in Computer Science and Economics. She represents RIA in the ITU's Expert Group on Household Indicators and in the ICT Indicator Task Group on Gender.

Indra de Lanerolle is a visiting researcher at the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa.

N. H. Nisansa de Silva is a researcher at LIRNEasia. He is also a lecturer in the Department of Computer Science & Engineering at Sri Lanka's University of Moratuwa.

Dedunu Dhananjaya is a software engineer at LIRNEasia, with an interest in data science.

Alison Gillwald is the Executive Director at Research ICT Africa and Adjunct Professor, University of Cape Town, Graduate School of Development Policy and Practice.

Faheem Hussain is an assistant professor in the Department of Technology and Society at State University of New York, Korea. His research interests are ICT4D, public policy, women's empowerment, and Internet freedom. He also works with UN organizations and think tanks in the Global South.

Gabriel E. Kreindler is a PhD student in the Economics Department at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is also a research fellow at LIRNEasia.

Sriganesh Lokanathan is senior research manager at LIRNEasia, where he co-established its multidisciplinary research group on big data for development.

Yuhei Miyauchi is a PhD candidate in Economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is also a research fellow of LIRNEasia, a think tank based in Colombo, Sri Lanka.

Mashiat Mostafa is a research study coordinator at Asian University for Women for a Ford Foundation-funded project on women's empowerment. She is also involved with research teams working on issues such as policy implications of new media, digital security for women, and online privacy.

Rohan Samarajiva is the founding chair of LIRNEasia, an ICT policy and regulation think tank active across the Asia-Pacific.

