Contributors

Aileen Agüero is a Researcher at the Institute of Peruvian Studies (Instituto de Estudios Peruanos—IEP) in the Economics Department in Lima, Peru, as well as at DIRSI (Regional Dialogue on the Information Society), a Latin American ICT research network.

Harsha de Silva is a Consultant Lead Economist at LIRNEasia, an ICT policy and regulation think tank across the Asia-Pacific. He is also a member of the current Parliament of Sri Lanka representing the United National Party.

Juhee Kang is a PhD student in Media and Information Studies at Michigan State University, focused on telecom policy and public-private initiatives on universal access and ICTD. She previously worked as a graduate researcher at LIRNEasia, a junior consultant at the ITU Asia Pacific, and as a business analyst at Samsung Mobile.

Ahmed T. Rashid is a Program Management Officer at Canada's International Development Research Centre (IDRC). His interests include the social and economic dimensions of development, social entrepreneurship and innovation, and ICT4D, with a particular focus on mobile phones. He received an MA in Sociology from McMaster University in 2007.

Dimuthu Ratnadiwakara is Executive Director at Liege Capital (Pvt) Ltd. He is also a visiting faculty member for diploma courses at the Central Bank of Sri Lanka and the Securities and Exchange Commission of Sri Lanka. He is a former researcher at LIRNEasia.

Rohan Samarajiva is the Founding Chair and CEO of LIRNEasia, an ICT policy and regulation think tank active across 11 emerging Asian economies. He taught at Delft University of Technology and at Ohio State University prior to working as the Director General at the Telecommunications Regulatory Commission in Sri Lanka. He was also a Team Leader at the Sri Lanka Ministry for Economic Reform, Science and Technology, responsible for infrastructure reforms.

Nirmali Sivapragasam is a postgraduate student in public policy at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, National University of Singapore. She is a former researcher at LIRNEasia, an ICT policy and regulation think tank active across the Asia-Pacific.

Matthew L. Smith is a Program Officer at the Ottawa headquarters of Canada's International Development Research Centre (IDRC). His work and research are in the field of ICT4D with an emphasis on the role of openness and information networks.

Randy Spence is the President of Economic and Social Development Affiliates, Canada, and a Fellow of the Human Development and Capability Association.

Ayesha Zainudeen is a Senior Research Manager and Demand-side Specialist at LIRNEasia, an ICT policy and regulation think tank across the Asia-Pacific. She manages LIRNEasia's ICT demand-side research program, Teleuse@BOP.